

WHAT DOES GOD SAY ABOUT YOU?

Sometimes, we can be let down, by certain people, by what the world expects us to be like. But, we do not need to allow it to define us. We are all made and created by YAHUVEH GOD, unique and different. If people cannot like you for who you are and how you are, they are not worth being apart of your life. Sometimes, people can surprise you, and they can come around, and change. But if they don't care at all, and remain the same, then I don't believe they should be apart of your life at least for me that is how I feel. I have had experiences of both, where you try and eventually that person will change and come around and you both get along, but I have also experienced the situation's when you have to make that hard choice to cut that person our of your life. Both are hard to face, especially if you have to cut someone out who you trusted or knew for awhile. But when you are dealing with certain people you don't even know that well, and they just don't seem to like you, for no reason at all, or your presence bothers them so much or they are jealous of you, it can be hard to face, especially when you want to try to be a good example for YAH but they bothered you, even though you are trying to not be.

But we have to continue, onward and to keep reminding yourself that YAHUVEH GOD is with you and for you.

People should accept you for who you are and how YAHUVEH GOD created you. How does HE see you? that's what is important, what does HE think of you? that is what matters. So be you always. You are designed uniquely and each person is special to YAHUVEH GOD. HE created you, and made you how you are. Don't worry what other's think of you and don't allow them to change who you are.

Never be ashamed of who YAHUVEH GOD made you. This world can be so mean, people can be so cruel with there words, and with there attitudes. Remember, that, in the end we are here called for a purpose, and that is to get to know what YAHUVEHS GOD will is for you, and doing the work HE has called you to do. We are to please HIM. We are not to please others.

You		are			Chosen

You		are			Redeemed
You		are	Set		Free
You are Victorious

Something that happened to me earlier today, really encouraged me to make this blog post because I know that many other people out there are going through a lot, and go through a lot, at school, or maybe at your job, or at home, wherever it is, you have had someone try to take your joy, you have had someone try to bring you down, you have had someone bully you, and try to make you feel like you do not belong, whatever it is, you need a reminder just like today I needed a reminder that we are Loved by our Heavenly Father, and HE cares for each of HIS children so much. People will try to make you as low as they are feeling, when they are miserable and unhappy in there own life's. Don't allow them too. Reflect on the Truth and who GOD says you are, and how much you mean to HIM, and how much you matter.
